Chicago, June 22.—Majority report credentials committee seating Taft delegates-at-large from Texas adopted by convention.

[By United Press.]
[Special to the Daily Republican.]

Chicago, June 22.—The convention was at a standstill this afternoon,
and it was doubtful if the nominations for President and Vice-President could be made before Monday.
It is likely the convention will extend into next week.

The delay was caused by the failure of the credentials committee to report on the remaining Texas contests. There was a long and drawn-out fight on this contest. These were the last to be decided by the committee.

The convention could do nothing until this report was made. Following that, the election of a permanent chairman was in order. That was not expected to take much time as the men in control had decided to continue Elihu Root in the chair.

Following that the report of the committee on resolutions had to be taken up before the nomination for President could be made. There was expected to be a fight on the resolutions committee report.

The convention convened at 10:45 o'clock. The galleries were only partially filled when Chairman Root rapped with his gavel for order. The drawn out session of yesterday which did not close until nearly eight o'clock
almost fagged out the delegates.

The first order of business was the adoption of the majority report of the credentials committee on the contests
in the Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Mississippi, Fourth Carolina, third Oklahoma and Second Tennessee districts. They seated the Taft delegates, thus upholding the decision of the national committee.

The Taft men administered a stinging defeat to the Roosevelt men yesterday afternoon, by a narrow margin of two votes, when the convention voted to seat the two Taft delegates from the Fourth California,
district in which San Francisco is located. The vote was 542 to 539.

It was practically conceded that Roosevelt's cause was lost after his vote, because his supporters had been

His Renomination Seems Probable

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

fighting for victory in this case, and had been preparing their bulwarks for a defense in this case. They fell back, a whipped and dejected lot.

"It is now hopeless," declared
Roosevelt, when he received the news
of that vote over his special wire from the convention hall. "You see what they intend to do with us. I should like to see those stolen goods go to Taft, for whom they were stolen."

After that vote the Roosevelt men admitted their complete route by adopting the majority reports on the contests in Indiana, Georgia, Kentucky and Louisiana, which seated the Taft delegates by a viva voce vote. The Michigan contests were to come next, but the delegates became so remonstrative that adjournment
was taken until this morning when it was expected the Michigan contests
would be taken up first.

They were not considered first this morning, however. After the action on the Tennessee, Oklahoma, North Carolina and Mississippi cases was taken a motion was put to the convention that the majority report of the credentials committee seating Taft delegates in all the remaining contests be accepted by the convention and it was adopted by a viva voce vote. This meant that the Roosevelt men were through fighting.

Even though the Roosevelt adher-ents admitted their complete defeat
by refusing to fight every partial report of the credentials committee,
they still wished to appear having a chance in the convention. The Colonel still maintained that his hat was in the ring.

In face of all this, one of Theodore Roosevelt's closest friends, after having a conference with him, stated that W. A. Prendergast of Brooklyn, who came here to present the Colonel's name to the convention was asked by him last night not to place him in nomination.

"We have not been bluffing," he said. "Mr. Roosevelt does not want the nomination at the hands of the convention as it is now constituted.
"There will be no bolt; his friends
will sit still tomorrow and not vote.
Our convention will be held here about the middle of August."

It is reported in circles very close to Roosevelt that he had released Comptroller William A. Prendergast.
This would mean that Roosevelt's name will not go before the convention. The Oyster Bay man is said to have declared that his only interest in Chicago now is to see that President Taft is not nominated.

This morning it appeared that William Howard Taft would most likely be nominated on the first ballot. There was no way to determine when the balloting for President would begin.
It was asserted by the leaders on every hand that the convention would be ended today, if it took until midnight, because it was not deemed wise
to hold over until Monday.

Although the Taft leaders are cock-
sure of the President's renomination,
there is many a slip between the cup and the lip. The administration forces argued that they had a safe majority in all test ballots in the convention, and that there was no reason why that majority should not vote to renominate President Taft.
That majority in each case was large enough to nominate.

Men who have favored a compromise candidate were urging this morning that it did not necessarily follow that delegates who have been voting
with the majority would support Taft when his name was presented. It was said by many that some delegates were voting with the majority merely to defeat Theodore Roosevelt and his ambition, and that they were not necessarily for Taft.

Taft leaders scouted this idea,
however, they maintained that if the majority of the delegates were not favorable to Taft for the nomination, they would not have voted with his

U. S. JACKSON DIES

BIEDERWOLF TO OPEN ASSEMBLY

Noted Orator and Evangelist Will Deliver Two Lectures First Day
of Chautauqua, August 4.

PROGRAM IS NOW COMPLETE

Grounds Committee at Work Preparing For Opening—Many Improvements are Planned.

The talent committee of the Rush County Chautauqua Association this morning accepted the offer of Dr. W.
E. Biederwolf to give two lectures at the ninth annual chautauqua which will be held in the Coliseum in the city park, beginning Sunday, August fourth and continuing eight days.

Dr. Biederwolf will give two lectures the opening day of the annual assembly, one in the afternoon and one at night. This fills the program for this year's chautauqua. The opening Sunday date has been open for some time.

Biederwolf is a gifted orator. He is not without experience on the chautauqua platform. He is one of the vice-presidents of the Winona Assembly and has been very prominent in the work there. Dr. Biederwolf was at home in Monticello, Ind., when the local committee asked him to open the chautauqua here. He was some time in reaching a decision.

Biederwolf has given much of his time in late years to evangelistic work. He is a man of such forceful and wonderful strength of character that he immediately developed into one of the leading evangelists in the United States. He now ranks with men like "Billy" Sunday.

It will be recalled that negotiations have been going on for some time for Biederwolf to hold a revival meeting here in the fall. Nothing definite in regard to this engagement has ever been reached.

Active preparations are now being made for the opening of the chantautauqua which is little more than a month away. Carpenters were employed today to cut windows all around the Coliseum so that the place could be ventilated. It is planned to swing the large wooden windows on hinges from the top so that they may be propped up and keep both sun and rain out when they are opened.

It is said to be almost decided to paint the Coliseum before the opening of the chautauqua. This was talked last fall but it was decided the wood would be in better condition this summer to hold paint. The roof will likely be painted so as to preserve it.

The committee on grounds expected to hold a meeting late this afternoon or tonight to plan its part of the work. It is decided that cinder walks will be built for the accommodation of chautauqua-goers. In case of a heavy rain the ground is always so wet that it is inconvenient to get in or out of the Coliseum.

Plans are also being laid to lay tile ditches through the front part of the city park so as to drain off the water that generally stands in the low places. The drains will carry the surplus water into Hodge's branch which runs through the park.

Arrangements were made today,
also, for fencing the city park in preparation for the chautauqua.
Plans will be made for parking the automobiles. It is likely more space will be allowed for the autos this year because the number in Rush county is increasing annually by leaps and bounds.

The talent committee feels that it has a program for the ninth annual assembly that can not be excelled for a chautauqua the size of the local
one. With Dr. Biederwolf here on the opening Sunday and George R. Stuart on the closing Sunday, mammoth crowds are assured for the opening and closing days.

There will be two "headliners" during the week. Former Governor R. B.
Glenn will be here on Tuesday and Former Governor E. W. Hoch will appear on Friday. There are a number of other noted lecturers and entertainers who will fill out the remainder of the program.

The music this year is especially attractive and the talent committee believes that it should command a good patronage. There will be one company which will treat Rushville to some grand opera; there will be a male quartet which plays all sorts of instruments, and sings; there will be the Jesse Pugh Company of musicians which will doubtless be welcomed to Rushville royally, and last but not least, a women's orchestra of note.

SHOCKLEY PAID HIS FINE

Released After Being in Jail For 30 Days.

Charles Shockley was released from jail yesterday afternoon upon the payment of a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $20. Shockley was fined $10 and costs and given thirty days in jail for visiting a house of ill fame. His thirty days sentence expired yesterday and his two brothers raised the necessary $20 for his release. The woman in the case, Mrs.
Alice Lloyd, has since left the city.

ESCAPES DEATH BY USING WRONG BED

Fred Snyder, Farm Laborer, it Has Developed, Was Guided by Some Good Fortune.

ROOF OF HOUSE CAVED IN

Developments since the windstorm early Sunday morning which took the roof off of the F. M. Allison farm residence, near St. Paul, show that had Fred Snyder, the farm hand who was alone in the house and was awakened by the terrific noise, went to his accustomed bed he would have been killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Allison, who live on the farm, had gone away on Saturday evening and Snyder instead of going upstairs to his own room
"went to the hay" in Mr. and Mrs.
Allison's room down stairs.

When investigation was made upstairs it was found that the bed in Snyder's room was covered with bricks which had been blown from the huge chimney down through the ceiling. One large brick was lying on the pillow and had Snyder been lying there he would have been killed.

est at Marion. Earl Horton and Fred

ROOSEVELT AT "ARMAGEDDON"

Third Term Now Stands Alone on Battle Field of Humiliation and Defeat.

IDAHO DESERTS HIS CAUSE

Hall Outside His Room, Where Excited Mob Stood a Few Days Ago, Bare of Crowd.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

Chicago, June 22.—It was last Monday night that Theodore Roosevelt stood before a vast crowd in the Auditorium and gave notice that he would not abide by the decision of the Republican National convention unless it purged its roll of 78 fraudulently seated Taft delegates.

And it was at the conclusion of his speech that he said, as one who delivered a message: "We stand at Armageddon and we battle for the Lord."

Today Theodore Roosevelt stood at Armageddon.
Those whom he had assembled had fallen away from him, and he was standing alone. He was facing defeat and humiliation and he knew it.

The enemy had made it plain the roll would not be purged. Roosevelt was left with nothing but the hope of taking the field at the head of a third or fourth party. It was poor consolation.

One by one the leaders on whose support Roosevelt had been told he could rely until the end, had told him they would not go with him. Senator
William S. Borah of Idaho, Senator
Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas, Governor Stubbins of Kansas, Governor Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, and George W. Perkins, the financial manager of his campaign—all had served notice they would not join him in a bolt, or a third party movement.

Seven of the eight Roosevelt delegates from Idaho had held a meeting and agreed to desert him and vote
for Cummins on the first ballot.

For the first time since Colonel Roosevelt arrived in Chicago, just a week ago, the day passed with hardly a demonstration in his honor. Until late in the afternoon the hall outside his headquarters was bare of the crowd that has daily stood there.

The Colonel left his living rooms at 9:30 in the morning, prepared for the day's work. He went direct to his headquarters on the floor below,
meeting no one on the way.

Shortly thereafter the men who have been in his inner circle of advisers made their appearance. Those who called were Governor Deneen of Illinois, Senator Bristow, Governor
Stubbins of Kansas, Senator Joseph M.
Dixon, William Allen White, Francis J. Heney, Judge Ben B. Lindley and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge.
Of these the only one who gave the Colonel assurance of support to whatever lengths he might choose to go was Heney.

The Colonel's leaders left their conference with nothing to say—all but Senator Bristow. He said simply: "Well, there's nothing more to do here in Chicago."

The Colonel remained upstairs for another hour. Heretofore it has been his custom to return to his headquarters at 3 o'clock. But Friday he stayed away, choosing to take an automobile ride for relaxation.

At 3:15 he started. Mrs. Roosevelt had gone downstairs quietly and was seated in the machine when he appeared.

The route was north through the park and along the lake shore drive.
Returning the Colonel stopped at a book store and ordered several books on hunting. He reappeared at his headquarters at 5 o'clock.

APPLE SHOW FOR INDIANAPOLIS

Tomlinson Hall Will Again House the Leading Fruit Exhibit in Middle West.

LAST YEAR'S BIG SUCCESS.

List of Varieties Eligible For Com-pletion Will be Enlarged—Object of Show.

At the last meeting of the Indiana Apple Show Commission, it was decided to hold the 1912 show in Indianapolis. The exhibit is scheduled for November 13th to 20th. It will be held in Tomlinson Hall as this is the only auditorium in the city large enough to hold the fruit which is to be displayed. Keen competition has been evinced by the various commercial organizations of the larger cities of the state in an effort to have the 1912 Show located in other parts of the state.

After much deliberation, it was decided to again locate the Show in Indianapolis. The geographical location of Indianapolis, as well as its excellent facilities for housing the exhibits both during and before the Show, determined the decision of the Commission.

The 1911 Apple Show was an un-qualified success. It was held in Indianapolis, November 6-11, 1912. The largest hall in Indianapolis was taxed to its utmost to hold the fruit. Over 1,000 bushels of fancy apples were on display. The management had offered over $3,000 in cash premiums as well as numerous valuable special prizes. Every class had entries and this large amount of premium money was distributed among the fruit growers of the state.

At the 1912 Show it has been decided to enlarge the lists of varieties eligible for competition. This will mean an increase in the premium money which will this year probably aggregate more than $6,000.

While large premiums are offered for the best exhibits in order to draw out the best fruit of the state, the show is not a commercial venture. The object of the show is education. It is held under the auspices of the Indiana Horticultural Society and its object is to bring to the attention of the people of Indiana the unexcelled but little known fruit growing re-sources of the state.

Indiana is an apple producing state. According to statistics found in the last United States census re-port, Indiana ranks seventh in the production of orchard fruits. Yet Indiana does not produce enough fruit for home consumption. Millions of Indiana dollars are spent annually for fruit grown in other sections which could be better grown at home. Indiana has room for ten times the present number of trees. Over pro-duction need never be feared.

The State is not yet horticulturally self-supporting and when we are, the markets of the continent are at our very doors. Thousands of acres of undeveloped orchard lands are to be found in Indiana. This land, properly planted and cared for, can easily be made to yield annually more than $100 net profit to the acre. To ex-ploit this undeveloped resource, then, is the object of the Indiana apple show—the Apple Show Commission has nothing to buy or to sell; a great educational work is being ac-complished which will result in the increase of the wealth, beauty and prosperity of the state.

The 1912 apple show will offer classes for every apple grower. The home orchardist with only a few trees will find a class especially for his accommodation; the large commer-cial grower will find a special class for his fruit. Practically every desir-able variety grown in the state will find an opportunity for competi-tion.

The plate, tray and box classes will receive even more emphasis this year than last. The number of varieties eligible for competition have been al-most doubled. A twenty-five box-class has been added and the prizes offered have been greatly increased.

The fruit grower is not the only one to be benefited by the show. A series of educational lectures has been arranged under the auspices of the Purdue Horticultural Department. There will be a lecture every after-noon on some phase of practical or-Every morning an experienced speaker will give demonstrations of the methods used in packing the ap-ples in boxes.

A special feature will be made of the varieties exhibited in the hall. Specimens of each variety will be placed in one bench. Each variety will be properly labeled, its history given and its commercial rating for this state discussed. If you are thinking of planting an orchard you should see this exhibit; if you are looking for the name of that old tree out behind the barn, here is where you will find it; or, if you want to re-new acquaintance with those old time friends,—the Vandevere, Belleflower and Rambo, this will be the place to look.

The 1912 apple show is planned to give a complete course of instruction in apple growing. Experts will tell the visitors how to grow and pack the fruit and the grower will show what can and has been done in In-diana.

For complete information in regard to plans and premium list, write the Secretary of the Apple Show, C. G. Woodbury, Lafayette, Ind.

IMPEACHMENT

House Committee Recommends Such Action in Archbald Case.

Washington, June 22.—The house judiciary committee voted unanimously to recommend that impeachment proceedings be brought against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the United States commerce court. The report of the committee will not be reported to the house until after July 1. As the vote in the committee is unanimous, it is expected that the house will con-cure in the report of the judiciary com-mittee and draw up specifications against Judge Archbald. The senate will act as a court to hear the im-peachment case and the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present will be necessary for conviction.

The charges against Judge Archbald were preferred by William P. Boland of Scranton, Pa., a coal operator, who charged improper business transac-tions in connection with the case of the Marlon Coal company against the Lackawanna railroad then pending in the commerce court.

Wanted at Pittsburgh.

Detroit, Mich., June 22.—Efforts to have Joseph Birch, with many aliases, return to Pittsburgh to face trial for one of the most daring burglaries in the history of the Smoky City, will be made by the police authorities of De-troit. Birch has been positively iden-tified by Lieutenant Thomas Lally as the man wanted in Pittsburgh for steal-ing over $20,000 worth of jewels from the residence of Mrs. Mary Thaw.

Merchant Accused of Arson.

Frankfort, Ind., June 22.—Gus Ran-dolph of the firm of Randolph & Schreiner, clothing merchants of Ros-sville, has been indicted by the grand jury for arson. A fire that did damage to the amount of $40,000 at Rossville, started in the Randolph & Schreiner store. He was arrested at Delphi and returned here.

1,000 Species of Weeds Grow Wild in Indiana

"The Indiana Weed Book," W. S. Blatchley's latest publication, will be of interest to all nature students and of practical value to the farmer and gardener. Within its 186 pages is a surprising amount of information concerning the world of weedom, which is such a very common world that few of us think of it as having any interest. After one has looked over this book he will think differ-ently, for the author has the art of open-ing one's eyes to the wonderful in common things.

Of the thousand or more species of plants growing wild in this state, 227 are treated as of weeds by Mr. Blatchley, his definition of "weed" being a wild plant that is useless, in-jurious or troublesome to man, and the life history of the humblest of these reads like a fairy tale, espe-ci-ally in their multiplication. We will hardly find anywhere else in nature a more striking example of that strange seeming intelligence that works mysteriously to its ends than in the provision for robbing the earth with living verurres. Man, animals, birds, wind and water are the ser-vants to the generations if weeds and the seeds are cunningly adapted to these distributing agents. Some are winged and some are little balloons or parachutes; some burrs with a thousand seeds, rolling lightly be-fore the winds sow as they go, and numerous others, equipped with all sorts of grappling hooks, fasten onto every moving thing and are carried far and wide, spreading over the land a conquering host. Many of our weeds have found their way here from other places. Says Mr. Blatch-ley:

"Of the 150 species of plants which are hereafter listed as being most harmful to the farmers of the state seventy-seven are natives of Indiana, that is indigenous to her soil, while seventy-three are intro-duced species. Of the latter fifty-eight came from Europe, two from Asia, eight from tropical America and five from the plains of the west-ern states."

According to the United States de-partment of agriculture the average yearly loss of agriculture from weeds will average one dollar an acre, and, according to this basis, Mr. Blatchley figures that the loss in Indiana amounts to the astonishing sum of $15,509,330. Hence, as a matter of economics a knowledge of weeds and the study of their eradication is of considerable importance; and the question of extirpation is one that this work deals with. Altogether the treatise is a valuable contribution to botanical literature, and in addition to its thoroughness it is exceedingly readable, even to one who has no special interest in plants. Besides a general dissertation there is an cata-logue profusely illustrated by the aid of which one may readily identify a large number of the common plants which to the average person have al-ways been just "weeds" without any more definite name.

Women As Athletes

In the domain in which men sup-posed themselves to be far superior to the other sex their supremacy is being rudely challenged. A woman has just finished the 1070-mile walk between New York and Chicago four days ahead of the stipulated time, on a diet of vegetables, fruit nuts ex-clusively, and all of them raw. Meat was not touched by her in any form during the trip. And the last few miles of her journey, when escorted by some of the best pedestrians on the Chicago police force she tired them out at the pace which she made for them while she herself, according to her own word, felt better and stronger at the end of her walk than she did when starting from New York.

What are the male pedestrians go-ing to say to this feat? But this is not the only game of strength and endurance in which women are be-ginning to excel. Some of them have beaten men on the golf links. In horse polo a woman team the other day defeated a team of men. Miss Florence Sutton, Miss Hazel Hotch-kiss and one or two other women ten-nis players are a match for any men in that pastime. Little Rose Popin-off, the Boston school girl swimmer, has defeated male champions so of-ten, and with such apparent ease, that she is virtually without mascu-line competitors. Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, who beat President Roosevelt in a long-distance ride several years ago, and who also left Gen. Miles, an-other Cantaur, far behind, has just finished a horseback ride which is al-most as great as that of Kit Carson from Los Angeles to Washington in 1847, which kept her in the saddle for forty days, and in which she traversed several thousand miles. Thus far no women have won any Marathon foot races, but a daughter of Atlanta may emerge at any mo-moment to vanquish the Milansons of the trousered sex.

In losing their ascendancy in the physical field, what are men good for, anyway? Women snatch prizes from them in co-educational colleges so often that nobody takes any notice of such victories now. But while man may care little if woman occasionally beats him in mathematics, linguistics and the polite arts, her supremacy in athletics hurts his feelings. Eleanor Sears says practice and the right sort of clothing would enable the av-erage woman to beat the average man as a pedestrian, and her exploits, like those of the female Weston who has just walked from New York to Chi-cago, show that she is more than half right. If the Leander and Hero episode of the Hellespont were to be repeated today, it would probably be Hero who would do the swimming.

Swat the Fly

"Why Are We Here?"

There was once a delegate in a national Republican convention at Chicago who, when fear was expressed that the country might be led to think they were there only for the offices, asked: "Well, what ARE we here for?" That question has lived. It has become almost a classic in the literature of politics. It was an Irishman's wit, serving as lightning to accompany the too-long resounding rolls of oratorical thunder. The convention and the country laughed. And the convention answered by adopting a Republican party platform in which the cardinal doctrine of the Republican party was so strongly enunciated that it was seen they had gone to Chicago for something more than the offices. Wherefore the party won, on its platform, and the question was answered again.

In the preliminary announcements of what Taft leaders and Roosevelt leaders are preparing to offer the Committee on Resolutions when it meets, the most cardinal doctrine of the Republican party seems to be striking only the minor chords. Out of the Roosevelt camp comes promise of a plank insisting on further reductions in tariff schedules.

Out of the Taft headquarters come promises of insisting upon the continuance in office of experts, called a Tariff Commission, charged with the duty of weighing, on nicely balanced scales, the differences in cost of production here and elsewhere, and adjusting tariff duties on parallel hair lines.

We are promised nothing in the way of a ringing declaration for the protection of American labor and industry against foreign competition. There seems to be one point of union for contending forces in Chicago. They seem to be preparing to join in a whisper on the tariff issue.

Issue is a word used advisedly in this connection. The tariff will be the issue of the campaign. The Democrats will force it at Baltimore in a more outspoken declaration than any they have made in years. They feel that the time is ripe for another successful assault on the protective idea in government, and their assurance has grown more out of such hesitation as now seems to be prevalent in Chicago than out of any result of any polling of the people. A faltering declaration at Chicago can only make more emphatic the declaration at Baltimore.

Democrats are more anxious than are Republicans to walk wide of all such things as the initiative, the referendum, and the judicial or any other sort to recall. They are preparing to relegate all such questions to the states, where they properly belong, and whose sovereignty, in determining their scope and application in government, can never be taken away. But they view with alarm a possibility that Chicago may speak in such a firm voice on the tariff question that Republican defections growing out of indecision, faltering and reciprocities which would not reciprocate, can no longer be depended on by them.

Any evidence of a want of faith at Chicago will be seized upon at Baltimore as evidence of a greater weakness than the Republican party showed at Chicago when it answered the question of what it was there for but the offices, by answering that it was there for the prosperity of the country and all the people in it.

Sincerity?

If the men in public life talking about their faith in the people, their devotion to the rule of the majority, their fealty to popular government really believe what they were saying it is hardly possible that two amendments to the constitution which provides ways and means of establishing popular government, the government of the majority, in certain portions of the republic where it has been overthrown would not have remained unenforced while these very statesmen were in charge of the government machinery and under an oath to support this same constitution.

Everyone knows that in violation of the constitution of the United States several hundred thousand black electors are denied the right of suffrage in a dozen southern states, and have been for twenty-five years. No concealment whatever is made of the fact that in southern congressional districts overwhelmingly dominated by colored men who are voters under the constitution a white majority is ruling by the denial of citizenship rights to men who are American citizens under the constitution of the United States.

If there is anything sacred about the rights of citizenship or about the will of the majority on the East Side in New York why does not the principle about which we are hearing so much righteous rant apply in the black belt of Georgia and Mississippi?

If the men who are doing this talking are really so much concerned about popular rule why has no effort been made during the past dozen years to enforce the plain provisions of the constitution in certain states of the union where these very statesmen have talked amiably during the period without even making mention of the plain denial of the principle of popular rule?

Not only has there been no effort from the executive mansion, or from the capitol during the past decade to enforce the constitution in behalf of popular government in these sections, but there has been actual opposition from these same quarters during all this time to the reduction

Sam Sanderson Says:

That by the time Rushville gets through with her ox roast, "Big Wednesday," chautauqua and a few other things, the fame of it will penetrate to darkest Newcastle.

of southern representation to eliminate that power in congress and the electoral college which these very states exercise on the basis of votes they will not allow to be cast.

It is possible that a man can really believe intensely in popular government and then as an official refuse to enforce the constitution in behalf of majority rule in the only portions of the country in which there is open and flagrant denial of the right of the majority of citizens to control the affairs of their government?

Why has it remained for one Indiana congressman, Judge Crum, to insist almost alone that the constitution should be enforced in the states of the old Confederacy in behalf of popular rights and majority rule?

There are certainly hundreds of thousands of colored voters in these southern states who cannot be accused of being less fit for self-government than many of the voters to which some of our statesmen have been appealing with fervid speeches in behalf of majority rule. The long continued spectacle of minority rule under government protection in the south renders talk of this kind farcical—we might almost say hypocritical,—and forces the conviction that it is not sincere, however unconscious the insincerity may be.

The New York man who gave his wife a nine cent wedding ring is being denounced. He is evidently in possession of important information as to how the bachelors can be persuaded into matrimony.

Once in a great-while the convention delegates have the effrontery to make themselves heard in spite of the fact that the galleries have the floor.

If success in life is filling the particular niche for which you were created and adapted by nature, Harry Thaw ought to be perfectly satisfied with his present occupation.

The senators are in second place in the American league, and they did not get there by moving to lay business on the table and adjourn.

Mayor Gaynor has thrown his hat in the ring, but if it is a straw hat it will be called in before November 5.

Mr. Root found that the only way to make a keynote speech this year is to play a solo on the bass drum.

Editorialettes.

We hope no one will object if we devote every other paragraph today to the national convention. We just can't get our mind—that is what little we have—on anything else.

To start with, the kids around here are all beginning to play "Convention" instead of the "Indian." The official garb is a wild look and a bolt from one of father's old wagons.

And then there are girls and there are girls. Some of them will remark before supper that they intend never to be wedded and at eight o'clock they are on the front porch in a two-passenger swing waiting

LOCAL HORSES WORKING GOOD

Rushville Trainers Are Making as Much Speed as is Consistent With The Season.

DAGLERS HAVE 4 GREEN ONES

Harrie Jones Has a Large Stable From Which he is Getting Results.

Rushville fast horse trainers are as a one-arm man who is attacked by a hive of bees. These are "hay days" for them. They are making as much speed out of their prospects as is consistent with the season.

Dagler Bros. are getting four green ones ready for the races. Springtime, a four-year-old trotter by Blackline, out of Gertrude Nelson, by Nelson, has shown Fred Dagler a mile in 2:23½ at the trot. The others of the Dagler string are pacers and include Tom Marshall, a three-year-old by Bow Patch, son of The Patchen Boy, dam by Lord Harold, which has thus far shown a mile in 2:26, with the last quarter in 33 seconds; a three-year-old by Charley Hayt, dam Maple, by Maplewood, has been a mile in 2:29½, and Ruby T., a five-year-old by The Patchen Boy, dam by Vic Monroe, has been a mile in 2:26.

Clyde Nebro, who always makes a campaign, expects to make his first start at the Dayton, Ohio, meeting. He will take four with him, including his old favorite, Martin Kelley, 2:15¼, with which he was a mile last Friday in 2:20, and Richard Sr., 2:17¼, his other record performer, which has shown him a mile in 2:22, with the last half in 1:08. The others are green ones, one a five-year-old trotter by Sidney Dillon, out of the dam of Czarina Dawson, now looks like the making of one of the good half-mile track performers of the year and has shown an easy mile in 2:23, with the last half in 1:08; while last, but not least of the quartet, is a five-year-old pacer by New Richmond, dam by Raven Wilkes, which is up to a mile in 2:24, last half in 1:10, and last quarter in 31½ seconds, and his work shows him to have the necessary brash.

George Weeks is getting two ready; Sister Lou, by The Patchen Boy, dam by Roy Wilkes, and Arlie O., 2:23¼, both of which he will campaign. The former has worked in 2:23¼ and the latter in 2:27¼, with last quarter in 32½ seconds.

W. A. Jones is working only one which he expects to campaign, but is training several colts. His one prospect is the five-year-old trotter, Louie Childs, 2:29¼, by Crescent Route, 2:08¼, a son of Cresceus, 2:02¼, out of Laura Jones, 2:13¼, which is an exceedingly handsome, well made stallion and now looks as if he would be a very creditable representative of the extreme speed families he represents. A mile in 2:26, last half in 1:11, recently seemed easy going for him.

Harrie Jones and his able assistants are busy every day from early morning until late at night getting the material at hand ready for engagements.

Harrie's work-outs the past week are as follows: Hermitage, 2:09¼, in 2:11¼, a half in 1:03¼ and a quarter in 30¼ seconds; College Jim, 2:12¼, in 2:12¼, a half in 1:05¼, and a quarter in 29¼ seconds; Bessie, 2:11¼, in 2:14¼, last half in 1:05¼ and last quarter in 31 seconds; Mabel B., 2:11¼, in 2:15 a half in 1:06 and a quarter in 31¼ seconds; Lilly Patchen, 2:24¼, in

2:16¼, last half in 1:06¼; Blanche Patch, 2:19¼, a mile in 2:18¼, with the last half in 1:07¼; Ralph Patchen, 2:24¼, a mile in 2:28, last half in 1:10¼; Azim, 2:26¼, in 2:22¼, last half in 1:10¼; Empire Candidate, 2:26, in 2:23¼, last half in 1:09¼; Empire Maid, 2:30, in 2:26¼, last half in 1:11¼; Para Belle, 2:26½, in 2:16¼, last half in 1:06¼; Caplin, 2:13¼, in 2:26¼, last half in 1:11¼; Lady Corine, 2:15¼, a mile in 2:22½, last half in 1:09; Maud B., 2:24¼, a mile in 2:27¼, last half in 1:09¼; Constantino, 2:21½ in 2:23¼, last half in 1:09; Katherine R., 2:13¼, mile in 2:16¼, last half in 1:07; and Alice Prodigal, 2:20, a mile in 2:28¼, last half in 1:11¼. The workouts of his green ones are: The Comet, a green pacer by Dick Wilkes, a mile in 2:21¼, last half in 1:08¼; Edith Direct, a green pacer by Direct Hal, dam Edith W., 2:05, a mile in 2:19¼, last half in 1:07¼; Partner, a green pacer by Nutclair, a mile in 2:20½, last half in 1:07¼ and last quarter in 31 seconds; Easter Girl, a green trotter, a mile in 2:26½, last half in 1:09; Belle Gentry, a three-year-old by John R. Gentry, a mile in 2:22½, last half in 1:09¼ and last quarter in 33¼ seconds. Major Silver, a trotter by Onward Silver, dam by Gambetta Wilkes, a mile in 2:22½, last half in 1:08, last quarter in 33½ seconds; Silas Hare, a trotter by Prodigal, dam by Gambetta Wilkes, a mile in 2:25, last half in 1:10¼; Ed Hill, a pacer by The Patchen Boy, a mile in 2:26¼, last half in 1:11¼; Orange Blossom, trotter, by Orlando Wilkes, a mile in 2:24, last half in 1:07¼; Floretta, a pacer by Dick Wilkes, a mile in 2:22½, last half in 1:08, last quarter in 32 seconds. Francis Hall, trotter, by Walnut Hall, a mile in 2:18, last half in 1:06¼; Robert C., trotter, by Constanero, a mile in 2:17¼, last half in 1:06½ and last quarter in 32 seconds; Ima Roundwood, a three-year-old pacer, a mile in 2:29, last half in 1:12; Lady Ivanhoe, a two-year-old trotting filly, in 2:36, last half in 1:16; McGregor Todd, by Todd, out of a Jay McGregor mare, a mile in 2:27¼ at the trot, and Walter Nulan, three-year-old trotter by Stiletto G., dam a full sister to Fantine, 2:26, a mile in 2:28 last half in 1:12¼.

Clell Maple is at Riverside Park track with his stable, but his absence for a few hours precludes a report for lack of correct data on his stable and their doings. All of the horses at the Rushville track are apparently working good and the trainers, without exception, optimistic and it would seem that here is a good field for secretaries to pick from.

Rushville, Ind., June 21, 1912.

To the Editor:
Speculating in your "ifs" of today, should Jim Watson get the nomination for President, he would have to promise a new federal building for Rushville before all of us would flock to his support.

A RUSHVILLE DEMOCRAT.

Chicago, June 22.—Between James E. Watson and Governor Hadley of Missouri, rival floor leaders in the convention, there is a warm friendship. Hadley came to Watson on the stand today during one of the roll calls and told him that he favored his nomination for the Vice Presidency and trusted that he would land.

Watson bowed very low.
"Not for me," he added as politely as possible. "Why, I have been booming you and I would like to see you on the ticket." Following which the two friends shook hands and called off their booms.

FENCE WAS ON SOMMERS' FARM

Surveyor Found Decision Which Resulted in Shooting Would Have Been Against Hopkins.

KENTUCKIAN STILL AT LARGE

There is no clue to the whereabouts of Wm. Hopkins, the Kentuckian, who shot and seriously injured Lee Sommers, his neighbor, southeast of Knightstown, late Wednesday afternoon of last week, says the Knightstown Banner. The authorities believe, however, that Hopkins will eventually be caught as he will most likely wander to the home of some relative and his identity will be learned by police who have been notified that he is wanted.

Word from the country district where the shooting occurred is to the effect that a surveyor found that the fence over which the trouble arose was several feet across the line on Sommers' side.

The man who was shot by Hopkins is resting easily and is so much improved that it is believed he will fully recover from his injury in a short time.

Leonard Hopkins, of Hancock county, brother of William Hopkins, was here and stated that his brother did not shoot at Sommers to kill him, but for the purpose of keeping him from using a knife, which he had drawn.

Lightning Is Liable To Strike Most Any Place

It is said that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but facts prove this to be a mistake, for lightning is liable to strike almost anywhere.

During the first four months, this year, more than twenty persons have been killed in Indiana and many others shocked. Last year, live stock suffered and many homes and barns were struck and destroyed by fire. Already, there has been several buildings in Rush county struck by lightning and in a few cases, fire followed. During the year 1911 there were a large number of churches, houses, barns and business places struck and burned. Last year, there were eight churches, seven oil tanks one hundred and nine horses were killed, twenty-six cows and mules, three hundred and nineteen head of hogs and eighty-six persons were shocked, burned or injured by lightning. The financial loss from lightning runs up into the several hundreds of thousands of dollars.

One of the strange things that a few people report benefits from lightning. Mrs. Jonathan Drake of Columbus, who had lost her voice from paralysis and had not spoken a word for two years, was restored by becoming frightened in a thunder storm on July 20, when she ran and screamed and has been able to talk ever since. A Kinsley, who was celebrating his fiftieth wedding anniversary, near Shelbyville, and for years had not walked without the aid of a cane, was cured of rheumatism by an electric storm that prevailed during the days of his anniversary. Many lightning pranks are enumerated and all of them make interesting reading. Of course, there are a large number of people and stock killed and damage done, that never gets into the newspapers, but the list that is known is a long one. The following is a list of a record that was kept of the fatalities of last year:

Eight persons were thus killed in Germany in one day, May 11; eight in London in one day May 31, and four by one flash at a Ft. Smith, Ark., picnic, May 30. At Cambridge, O., ten persons were badly shocked at a ball game August 14, several not recovering consciousness until the next day, when the lives of several were despaired of. At Lebanon ten teachers' institute, were shocked October 1. Twelve scholars at Norristown, September 15; more than one hundred at Anderson June 4, and thirteen at Peabody, Kas., July 22.

As for animals, ten horses were killed near Otterbein, July 11; five at a Dunkard church east of Kokomo, October 14; twelve on the Walsh farm, Bartholomew county, September 27, and five on the Arneman farm, Huntington June 4. Ten cows were thus killed at a silo near Logansport, September 15. When we add to these the large number of other persons who were struck but not killed, we can easily see that the old "joke" of there being about as much chance of catching smallpox or getting hurt as of getting struck by lightning is not half so funny or truthful as may.

Lightning seems to be more destructive in level, open country, the overhead wires and numerous projections of a city evidently protecting it some what. But at times it seems to violate all the well-laid of fanciful rules for its guidance, except the one regarding its following the path of least resistance. For instance, there were several times where it struck more than once in the same place; it tore Dan Burkhardt's feather bed all to pieces, at Huntington, severely burning him; at Scottsburg it stripped all the feathers off a roosting flock of chickens without killing the birds. In general terms, however, it is usually safer during a storm, to remain inside a building, and to keep dry and away from metal substances as much as possible.

TO WIND UP CONVENTION BY SUNRISE

Will Stick It Out to the End.

AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION

Delegates Do Not Expect to Rise Till Through.

TAFT CHIEFTAINS EXULTING

They Feel Now That Nothing Lies In Way of Nomination.

Chicago, June 22.—The national Republican convention this afternoon, after confirming the temporary officers of the convention as permanent officers, took up the report of the committee on resolutions, following the conclusion of its consideration of the report of the committee on credentials, the majority report of which followed the decisions of the national committee and which was sustained by the convention. There were two sets of resolutions and the Roosevelt followers expected to press the minority report with vigor, though, in view of the convention's action on all other points of issue, with little hope of success.

Many think that the convention is to extend over Sunday. Others insist that its work shall be completed tonight, if the delegates are compelled to remain in their seats until sunrise Sunday morning. On one opinion the Taft forces and the Roosevelt forces coincide, and it is to the effect that Gov. Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri will become the choice of the delegates of the convention for vice president. Every single chieftain in charge of President Taft's forces announced that the president would be renominated before the present sitting rises.

President Taft's campaigners fully realize that they must play their hand cautiously and yet firmly in order that the slender majority given to the president's cause in the vote on credentials shall not be weakened. No mistakes are to be made, the president's friends say. It will require 540 votes to nominate, and Mr. Taft's friends believe that the test vote of 569 represents his total strength. It will thus be noted that the president has but twenty-nine votes to the good. There is no danger, the Taft men assert, of Roosevelt's nomination, but there is danger, in the judgment of many, that the nomination may go to a third candidate. Governor Hadley has made a great reputation for himself with many of the delegates to this convention. There is no mistaking the fact that Senator Root, as presiding officer, has also gained the admiration of many delegates. Colonel Roosevelt's most intimate friends are insistent in declaring that if President Taft is renominated the third party movement will be vitalized. Such a movement, however, these friends of Colonel Roosevelt assert, would be vastly expensive.

The Taft delegates on the main question of the presidential nomination can be relied upon to stick to the president as long as he is a candidate for the nomination, in the judgment of Mr. Taft's leaders here, but what many of these Taft delegates state is, that inasmuch as Colonel Roosevelt has been beaten and the purpose of the Taft chieftains accomplished, the president should be magnanimous and remember that there are to be elections in most of the states this fall for governors, legislatures which are to elect United States senators, and elections for members of the house of representatives. Other delegates do not entertain these views and will not tolerate the hearing of them from their fellows.

An amazing climax to many came last night when Governor Stubbs of Kansas, after leaving Colonel Roosevelt, said: "There will be no bolt. This talk of a bolt is foolish. Colonel Roosevelt never talked about a bolt. Our delegation and all the other Roosevelt delegations will remain in the convention until the nomination is made, I believe. There can be no compromise candidate as far as we are concerned."

ALL ONE WAY

The Taft Forces Held Their Own on Credentials Report.

Chicago, June 22.—The Republican national convention was two hours late in resuming its deliberations yesterday afternoon, the delay being caused by the fact that the committee on credentials was far from having completed its labors. The Taft representatives on the committee did not in the slightest degree hold Roosevelt men down to the rule that they had twenty minutes in which to present a congressional district contest and

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

He Will Attend Baltimore Convention as a Nebraska Delegate.

contest representing a state.

The Taft men on the committee decided to give the Roosevelt men the fullest latitude in order that it should be demonstrated to the country at large that Colonel Roosevelt has been entirely misinformed as to the nature of the contests and their value to himself. As an evidence of the latitude given to the Roosevelt contestants, ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana was allowed to speak three hours on the Indiana contests and was then defeated by a vote of nearly three to one.

Senator Root, temporary chairman of the convention, ascertaining that the committee on credentials was not ready to report, that it had completed only about half of its labors and the complete report could not be presented to the convention before night, declared that would not do at all. He asserted the convention must proceed with its work and directed the committee to prepare the majority report on the Ninth Alabama district contest. A two hours' delay followed in order to prepare the majority report and also the minority report in the Ninth Alabama contest.

Meantime there were 15,000 men and women assembled in the convention. Many were impatient over the delay. But the band entertained the great audience with inspiring strains. The Roosevelt men in the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Oklahoma delegations at short intervals told of their desire for their Teddy. William J. Bryan came in to resume his seat in newspaper row to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne," and finally when the long delay was at an end and the report in the Ninth Alabama case had been prepared and was ready for submission to the convention, the band was pumping out the "Miserere."

Governor Hadley renewed his resolution that the delegates whose seats were contested should not be allowed to vote, but this was defeated by 569 ayes to 499 noes, ten not voting. Mr. Watson then made a motion that the minority report on the Ninth Alabama contest be laid on the table, which was carried by a vote of 605 ayes and 464 noes. The convention then accepted the majority report.

The next contest called was the six Arizona delegates, and the convention seated the Taft six by a vote of 564 to 497, seventeen not voting. On the Fifth Arkansas district contest the majority report seating the Taft men was adopted by a viva voce vote.

A roll call on the California case resulted: Noes, 529; ayes, 542. It was the closest vote yet. The Taft delegates of the Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky and Louisiana contestants were then seated by a viva voce vote. By this time the disorder began to increase in the convention hall. The police were busy ejecting hooters from the galleries. The Michigan contests were brought in, but on account of the weariness of the delegates and the growing disorder, Chairman Root announced that the convention would adjourn until 10 o'clock this morning, when the first business would be the vote on the Michigan case. It was 7:40 when the convention adjourned.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE SHAKES COSTA RICO

Disturbance Originated in Poas Volcano.

Port Limon, Costa Rica, June 22.—Earthquakes followed by a snow storm during tropical midsummer, by destructive waves from rivers swished from the banks, and by escaping fumes of sulphur which all but asphyxiated the inhabitants, have just swept over a section of the interior of this republic. None of the large cities or towns were damaged, as they lay out of the track of the disturbance, which originated in the Poas volcano. The rural districts and several small towns were so shaken that scarcely a building stands. Many were killed in their homes, which crashed about them. Sarchi, a town of 300 persons, in the department of Alajuela, was one of the towns destroyed. Due to the use of light building materials in nearly all houses, it is probable that the death list in the ruins will not exceed twenty.

The Coroner's Verdict.

Jeffersonville, Ind., June 22.—In his formal verdict Coroner Coots attributes the death of Mrs. Mary Louise Kelly, recently, to shock resulting from a stab wound in the neck and other injuries inflicted by George Kelly, Jr., her grandson, who committed suicide in less than twenty-four hours after the crime.

Bailey Also Out of It.

San Antonio, Tex., June 22.—Senator Joseph W. Bailey has telegraphed demanding that his name be stricken from the state primary ballot, and declaring in emphatic language that he would under no circumstances permit his name to go before the voters of Texas again.

TALKING OVER A THIRD PARTY

Roosevelt Followers Not Giving Up Quietly.

WILL TALK IT OVER AT HOME

Then if They Find a Supporting Sentiment Among "the Boys in the Trenches," They Will Carry Out the Idea of Holding a Progressive Convention Some Time Later, to Name Roosevelt as the Standard Bearer.

Chicago, June 22.—The cry of "Fight 'em; fight 'em" is silenced and all that remains to the progressive leaders is the more or less indefinite intention of going back to the country with the proposal to start a new party. Theodore Roosevelt is beaten in this convention, and his followers admit it. Without doubt the more belligerent men among the friends of the colonel will insist upon putting his name up to a rump convention. Colonel Roosevelt himself does not countenance this plan. If his advice is followed those who will not recognize the action of the convention as at present constituted will quietly go back to their own districts to begin the work of sounding progressive sentiment.

The colonel's decision not to make a stand-up fight against the majority does not suit the more ardent of his followers who have no use for passive resistance.

Nothing showed the change in the fighting more than the appearance of the Roosevelt quarters yesterday in the Congress hotel. The crowds were not there, nor were there as many conferences between the colonel and his field marshals. The great crowd that taxed the strength of the Chicago police had faded away. The hallways, which had been filled with a shouting, panting mob of Roosevelt enthusiasts from the time that the colonel made his first appearance here were for the most part empty.

The loyal followers who had put themselves under the colonel's standard met in the hallway from time to time and talked over the prospect for a new party. They were sure that one would be born. They said that it would not organize on the ashes of the present convention, but would be postponed until they heard from their own districts. The progressive convention, if it takes place at all, will not come for a month or six weeks at the very earliest.

Some of the colonel's friends pointed out that such a party would draw from both the Republican and Democratic parties as they now stand. They even suggested that the withdrawal of the radical elements might in time bring about a coalition. Dynamite Ed Perry, who is leader of the Oklahoma delegation and is determined to stick to the progressive idea, started a move to this very purpose. He said that the Oklahoma delegation would charter a special train and go to the Baltimore convention to see if they could win away from the Democrats some of the radical members. He said that he had talked with a number of western and southwestern delegates on their way to the Baltimore convention and had heard from them that Colonel Roosevelt as the head of the progressive ticket would carry their own districts without a struggle.

The adherents of the colonel said they had no doubt that by the middle of August there will be a progressive convention and that this convention will nominate Roosevelt. Last night when a crowd in Michigan avenue set up the old yell of "We want Teddy," Colonel Roosevelt stuck his head from the window and said: "My hat is still in the ring and will be forever."

It is understood that Colonel Roosevelt has urged Governor Hadley not to consent to a nomination for the vice presidency in this convention. Governor Hadley has taken the matter under advisement.

BRYAN CREATES STORM CENTER

Precipitates Fight On Parker for Chairman.

CONSTERNATION AT BALTIMORE

Democratic Leaders at Scene of Coming Convention Are Running Around in Circles Since Receipt of Bryan Telegram Announcing Commoner's Views on the Subject of Selecting Judge Parker For Chairman.

Baltimore, June 22.—Like a bomb in the party camp here fell William J. Bryan's telegram to six of the Democratic candidates for president, inviting them to join with him in a fight against the nomination of Judge A. B. Parker for temporary chairman.

Strong efforts are being made today to bring about a compromise which would avoid a fight between the Bryan and anti-Bryan forces on the floor of the convention, but leaders like Charles F. Murphy of New York, Roger C. Sullivan of Illinois and Thomas Taggart of Indiana insisted that the affair had now been carried too far for any backward step. The withdrawal of Judge Parker at this time would, it was conceded, be a Bryan victory and would strengthen the Commoner's hand at the opening of the convention.

Mr. Bryan's anti-Parker telegram was addressed to Speaker Champ Clark, Governor Wilson, Governor Burke of North Dakota, Governor Foss of Massachusetts, Governor Baldwin of Connecticut, and Mayor Gaynor of New York.

Governor Wilson and Champ Clark answered the Bryan telegram at once. Governor Wilson's followers said he informed Mr. Bryan he was ready to support a progressive candidate for temporary chairman, which meant, of course, that he would join with the Commoner in the fight against Judge Parker. Champ Clark was much more guarded in his reply, but argued against a fight on Parker.

As viewed by Democrats in Baltimore, the Bryan telegram was aimed chiefly at Speaker Clark. It has been no secret in Baltimore for some days that the speaker has gradually been turning from Bryan in an effort to capture delegates from the so-called conservative ranks. There have been rumors that the speaker was flirting with Charles F. Murphy, in the hope of obtaining New York's ninety delegates in exchange for votes in support of Judge Parker for temporary chairman. The attitude assumed by Speaker Clark toward the Parker chairmanship fight, will, in the opinion of Democratic leaders, eventually result in the turning of Bryan from the Clark boom and the throwing of the Commoner's support to Woodrow Wilson.

There was plenty of evidence that the Bryan message was a great surprise to the Clark forces, and that it was a most unwelcome communication. Many of the speaker's friends were inclined to resent Bryan's attempt to put Speaker Clark down in black and white on this temporary chairmanship issue. The Harmon and the Underwood boomers went around smiling.

Mr. Taggart was plainly irritated over the turn the fight against Bryan had taken. "There was not the slightest disposition by anybody on the committee of arrangements," said Mr. Taggart, "to offend Mr. Bryan or any other Democrat. We selected Judge Parker because he had been at one time the party's nominee for president and because he always has been a good Democrat." Mr. Taggart further said he did not consider Judge Parker a reactionary.

"Mr. Bryan himself," continued Mr. Taggart, "pounding one fist on top of the other, 'could have been temporary chairman of this convention, but he wrote to Norman E. Mack saying that he did not want the place.'"

"It means a fight, and we might as well have it right now," was the comment of National Committeeman R. M. Johnston of Texas, another of the Parker men on the committee on arrangements.

"It is very unfortunate," said Clark Howell of Georgia, another committeeman who has voted for Judge Parker. "If Mr. Bryan insists upon forcing a fight, I am in favor of having it out once for all."

The attitude of the Woodrow Wilson boomers toward the Bryan challenge was indicated in a statement issued by Representative Robert L. Henry of Texas. He said: "The progressives cannot and will not agree to the selection of Judge Parker, a known reactionary for temporary chairman. Mr. Bryan is right, and I shall be found fighting in the front with him."

The seats of eighty-two delegates to the Baltimore convention are to be contested. The most important contests are in Illinois and South Dakota. In Illinois contests will be waged against the eight delegates-at-large and district delegates from eleven congressional districts. The fight there is between the Roger Sullivan wing of the party and the Hearst-Harrison wing, the latter being the contestants. In South Dakota the contests involve ten delegates and are between the Wilson men, who were elected on the face of the primary election returns, and Champ Clark's delegates, who lost by a few votes.

SAYS FOUL PLAY THEORY IS FALSE

Shelby County Coroner Returns Verdict in Case of Orlando Moore of Rays Crossing.

IT'S JUST PLAIN SUICIDE

Verdict Asserts That no Marks of Violence Were Found on Body.

Rumors emanating from the Rays Crossing vicinity indicating that there might have been foul play in the death of Orlando Moore, sixty-six years old whose body was found hanging in his barn the morning of June 12, 1912, have been set at rest by the filing of the coroner's verdict today, as that official holds the death was plainly suicidal and in his explanation he states that there were no marks of violence about the body of the dead man except those made by the rope, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

The witnesses examined in the case were Mrs. Nancy A. Moore, widow of the suicide; Orville E. Gordon and Frank Thomas.

The explanatory statement made by the coroner and his official verdict follow:

"Orlando Moore was found hanging by a small rope tied to a loft joint in his barn on June 12, 1912 about 4 a. m. His feet were resting slightly on the ground and his knees were somewhat flexed and both legs and arms were stiff and cold. A nail keg was lying on its side near his feet, which he had evidently used in adjusting the rope. There were no marks of violence about his person except the rope print about his neck, which was a deep blue line or groove, showing the small rope had imbedded itself deeply. His neck was not broken and he had died of strangulation. The arms were hanging by his side.

"I. M. M. Wells, coroner of Shelby county, after viewing the body of Orlando Moore, hearing the evidence of witnesses and making other necessary investigations, find that death was the result of strangulation by hanging and was suicidal.

TEXAS TAFT MEN SEATED; REPORT CAUSES DELAY

Although many prominent Republicans believed a compromise candidate should be named, they were afraid to think of what might result if the Taft delegates were released from their obligations.

With the delegates pledged to the two principal candidates allowed to vote as they pleased, it was predicted that a nomination would be delayed because there were any number of State delegates who would only be too glad to support their native sons. And it was feared that a candidate that would not measure up to Taft would be selected.

This morning it was generally conceded that Taft would be the choice of the convention. Since his leaders had been fighting for his cause as against Roosevelt's they felt they were duty bound to support him to the finish, now that he had been victorious.

After a prolonged conference by the Taft leaders who are in absolute control of the convention, they announced their program as follows:

1. To nominate Taft on the first ballot. This was given out by Senator Penrose, the General commanding, but he admitted that a second ballot might be necessary.

2. To meet and approve the seating of the Taft contested delegates by viva voce vote.

3. To effect permanent organization by unanimous consent. This will make Root the permanent chairman.

4. To limit debate on the platform to four hours, two hours to each side. The platform is now in the hands of President Taft, and at midnight Murray Crane was in consultation with him concerning it over the long-distance telephone.

5. To limit seconding speeches, but to allow nominating speeches to go the limit. Warren G. Harding of Ohio will nominate Taft. If Roosevelt's name is presented he will be nominated by William Prendergast of New York.

6. To rush through nominating speeches for Vice-Presidency and get away before midnight.

7. In the opinion of Senator Penrose the renomination of President will be reached by 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Senator Penrose after a conference with the other Taft leaders, said "The friends of President Taft will stick to him to the end. They have no intention of switching to any other candidate. We think we have plenty of votes to nominate him and will go to the convention with that purpose in view."

A fist fight at the meeting of the credentials committee this morning was narrowly averted. The trouble arose over a statement of charge that the contested delegates and the members of the Republican committee had formed a coalition in the credentials committee to control the committee in behalf of the contested delegates. It was said this statement would be presented to the convention today to complete the record of the Roosevelt fight against the seating of the Taft delegates.

When the meeting of the credentials committee came to order this morning, Chairman Devin delivered a speech replete with terrible invectives against the perpetrators of the statement. He condemned it as a miserable falsehood and stamped the men back of it as wilful liars.

The statement said the coalition was for the purpose of preventing the hearing of the contests by limiting the contestants to five minutes each. That such a thing existed, it was recited, was proved by the fact that reports were taken before the convention before the committee had had time to hear the contests, which indicated they had been prepared beforehand.

There was talk early today among Roosevelt delegates of a mass meeting to effect some form of temporary organization of a new party. It is the desire of the leaders to take such a step before the delegates separate, that the work of forming a new party may begin at once in every part of the country. It had not been decided whether a meeting would be held in the Coliseum on adjournment of the Republican convention, or whether the delegates would go to some other hall, but the latter course was most in favor. Roosevelt probably will address the delegates.
